Sound Wave

Sound Wave is Tulane University’s student run Pep Band. Our organization has been around for about eleven years. We are voluntary and have a membership of about fifty talented students. Since our inception, we have performed at the Men’s and Women’s home Basketball games, Men’s and Women’s Conference games, and Men’s and Women’s NCAA games as well as the past two Homecoming pep rallies. With the Athletics Department as our sponsor, we get some support, none of which is financial. Now we are looking to expand and that is where we need you.

It has been many years since Tulane has seen a marching band and Tulane University is the ONLY Division 1 School without a marching band. It is the goal of this student organization to become Tulane University’s Marching Band of the new millennium. Unfortunately, we lack the money and resources needed to do this. We are asking for any donations to help pay for much needed music, instruments, and equipment that is not budgeted to us by Student Programming. We are also asking if you could spread the word to your Chapter Club’s alumni to help us raise the support and funding we need to move toward our goals.

If you would like to help please make checks out to Sound Wave of Tulane University and send them to:

Thank you for you support.

RE: Director of Alumni Affairs

It is with great pleasure that we announce to you that Charlotte Travieso has been named Director of Alumni Affairs, effective February 1, 2001. As you know, Charlotte has been acting as Interim Director of Alumni Affairs for nearly the past year. In that brief time, she has been extremely effective in all aspects of managing the Alumni Affairs office as well as reaching out to Alumni throughout the world. Charlotte has quickly become an integral member of the Institutional Advancement staff, and, as Director, Charlotte will further the progress she has made on her goals:

- To increase the effectiveness and productivity of the Alumni Affairs staff
- To make the Alumni Affairs organization, and its systems and procedures more efficient and responsive
- To strengthen and enhance the relationship between the Tulane Alumni Association and the Alumni Affairs office, and all other offices within the University
- To become a vital link between all Alumni Affairs offices within the University.

We know that you will join us in wishing Charlotte the best of luck as she continues her decades-long relationship with Tulane in her new capacity as Director of Alumni Affairs.

Director of Alumni Affairs Report
February 10, 2001

SUBJECT: Report from the Office of Alumni Affairs
TO: Tulane Alumni Association Board of Directors

Some of what you read here is a repeat of information from the January report to the Executive Committee. There are several ongoing projects in various stages, so I will continue to mention them and give you their status.

❖ Tulane Alumni Association (TAA) Board Liaison

-- The contract for an alumni print directory has been signed. The online alumni community contract is still being discussed. The major issue currently is one of the university’s liability for products sold through the e-commerce shopping mall. Discussions continue among the General Counsel’s office, the Alumni Affairs office, and Publishing Concepts, Inc. For the print directory, I am working with the Communications and Electronic Resources Committee on the survey form and the letters that will go to all alumni, as well as the introduction and design.

-- The TAA Awards Committee has received many qualified last minute nominations from external sources for the alumni awards that will be presented at the Awards Banquet at the Audubon Tea Room on May 6th. Nominations closed on January 19th. Several nominations have come in from within the university, also. By the time you read this, the Awards Committee should have selected all the awardees and the Awards Committee Chair, Stanley Cohn, will be announcing them at the Board meeting.

❖ Student / Alumni Cultivation and Outreach

-- The monthly counts table showing Tulane Club and other volunteer activities for January and February, 2001 will be included in the March report to the Executive Committee.

-- Letters are going out to possible honorary and working chairs for the newly forming Louisiana Council. As I reported last month, this council will include representatives from the six Louisiana Hometown Tour cities, plus New Orleans. The first meeting will be held on April 11th, culminating in a reception at the Tulane/LSU baseball game at Zephyr Field. The TAA New Orleans Club will host. Tulane Club Presidents in five of the seven cities will be asked to serve on the Louisiana Council as Alumni representatives. For the two cities without active clubs (Lake Charles and Shreveport), the Council organizers will be asking volunteers from the Louisiana Hometown tour host committees. A copy of the Louisiana Council proposed structure is attached.

-- The Medical School formed the Tulane Legislative Advocacy Network in 1996 for concerned and politically connected alumni to lobby on behalf of continued funding for Charity Hospital. The network is now being expanded to include alumni who are willing and able to make connections and express opinions with Louisiana legislators when appropriate. As with the Louisiana Council, this expanding network is a follow-up to the Louisiana Hometown Tour. On April 17th, Tulane will host the second annual Tulane Day at the Capitol in Baton Rouge.

-- Several new materials have been developed for current and future alumni. You are seeing the Alumni Association membership cards and the post-it notes today. (We are already getting calls and visits from alumni requesting the cards). There is also a three-fold brochure in the printer-bidding stage. It will be distributed far and wide to entering students at orientation, graduates, board members, clubs, and other organizations at Tulane. Sonya Willis deserves huge kudos for her innovation and design expertise in putting these things together.

❖ Revenue Enhancement

-- I have put together a proposed budget for the Office of Alumni Affairs, including fund allocation for the Alumni Association activities. On June 30, 2002, the office will no longer be receiving the $400,000 portion of the $2,000,000 affinity card five-year agreement. This $400,000 represents about half of the office’s annual expenditures and covers the allocation for TAA activities. Eric Weimers, Rich Schmidt, John Williams, Jane Bickford and I will continue our dialogue about how to address this future revenue loss. Interestingly, in putting the paper together, I did research which showed that, of the alumni who attended TAA-related events in 2000 (35+ in attendance), 57% give money to Tulane. This is almost twice the national average and shows, I think, that there is a definite connection between non-development outreach and annual giving.

-- Meyer and Associates, our affinity insurance provider, is working to expand its program to include automobile, dormitory and renters, homeowners, extended term life, and long term care insurance. In addition, Liz Guillory is meeting with representatives from North American Van Lines and from a pharmaceutical affinity provider.

University / Alumni Affairs Office

-- Bill Vandivort has moved, effective February 1st, from Alumni Affairs Assistant to Senior Program Coordinator and Annemarie Guillory has moved from part-time student worker to full-time Alumni Affairs Assistant. Annemarie has assumed all of Bill’s responsibilities including events coordination with Gibson Hall, and has kept her letter writing duties. We have a new work-study student named Paige Miles who is in the office 25 hours a week. (Work-study means no cost to us!).

-- During January 7-9, I attended a meeting of the newly formed Private Colleges and Universities Alumni Directors group (PCUAD, pronounced pequod). Composed so far of 23 members, the group represents schools with an alumni base of 50,000 – 200,000, an alumni relations staff of 5-15, and a budget of $.5 - $1.5 million. It was an affirming and confirming meeting. We discussed many things, including generational marketing and programming, trends in alumni relations, alumni directories, corporate sponsorships, and alumni clubs. Tulane differs in its approach to corporate sponsorships (we do none of that) and alumni clubs (programs at other schools are non-existent or waning while ours are on the upswing). PCUAD will meet again in July.

-- Steve Martin, Associate VP for Institutional Advancement recently announced that Scott Somerville is assuming the position of Director of Major Gifts. Most recently, Scott worked in development in the Business School. Luann Dozier has moved from Major Gifts to head the newly created Leadership Gifts section.

Please let me know if you have any questions.

Respectfully submitted,

Charlotte Travieso

Existing Homecoming Programs around the University

President’s Reception: Held at #2 Audubon Place, President Cowen hosted a Thursday evening reception for graduates celebrating their 50, 55, 60, 65, 70 and 75 year reunions along with the membership of the Associates.

Emeritus Club: Held joint reunion with Tulane College and Dean’s Breakfast in addition to the Saturday Luncheon prior to the football game. Members invited to Superdome suite during the game.

Law School: Alumni cocktail party at school offering complimentary food and drink on Friday evening. Wide range of graduating years present with great camaraderie. In addition, the Law School holds reunions during the Thanksgiving season as well as during Commencement and Homecoming. Reunions are organized and driven by interested alumni with assistance from Ellen Briere.

Medical School: Presents an active homecoming weekend with events including CEU providing seminars, Friday night class dinners, Saturday tours and cocktail receptions, followed by a Sunday Brunch. This year’s events were held during the ‘original’ Homecoming weekend, which was one week after the Homecoming football game was played.

School of Public Health: Holds a reception for alumni at Homecoming.

Newcomb: Holds the “Under the Oaks” event for all on Friday followed by the awards banquet on Friday night. The Saturday events are planned together by the class agents and the Newcomb Alumni Office.

Engineering: Society of Tulane Engineers holds its Annual Jazz Brunch and election of Officers prior to the Football Game. This is also the annual meeting for the group. Two (2) awards are presented to outstanding alumni. The School does not schedule reunions; they are class/alumni driven with assistance from the Dean’s office.

Architecture: Hosted an Open House and a reception. There is no budget and little planning was done.

Tulane College: A Luncheon and Career Panel was organized as well as reunion events for the 5, 10, 40, and 45year reunion classes. They are trying to build with the Newcomb formula as a model.
Newcomb College, Medical School and the Emeritus Club are the most successful in terms of traditional activities and attendance revolving around Homecoming. These require interested alumni and planning that can best be done when the date of Homecoming is known far enough in advance.

Homecoming strengths

- Alumni representatives already in place at the schools to work with alumni interested in doing Homecoming activities
- The New Orleans draw works in our favor-leverage what the city has to offer with what we can offer as a university community
- Bright spots are present where tradition is important (others can learn from them)
- Newcomb class agent program works and could be copied
- Diverse student body/alumni offers opportunities for unique programming (an International Homecoming)
- President Cowen walks the walk when it comes to Homecoming activities

Homecoming weaknesses

- Increased participation from alumni members including board needed
- The university in the City of Jazz has no band to make noise and generate excitement.
- Date of HC unknown in advance / subject to change which cripples planning (Note that most professional societies and conferences are booked several years out into the future)
- We do not have the athletics tradition to rally around yet (Big game day tailgating, etc. atmosphere)
- 80% of students from out of state / will not return regularly for HC
- International students don’t do football that much
- The New Orleans draw works against us; we compete with city in terms of hotels and reservations and attractions
- Students do not know the responsibilities of being an alum; We have 4 years to show them while they are here from Orientation to Commencement
- Each school does its own thing; should we have a University wide component to HC?
- Lack of family activities
- Lack of educational opportunities
- Most schools do not offer Continuing Education Credit programs during Homecoming
- Greek system is not active at football games as they used to be.
- Lack of interested alums to put something together
- Students do not have the love, affection and enthusiasm for Tulane that they should.

Reunions

Reunions are now held on a per school basis scattered throughout the year. Some are held during Homecoming, others during Jazz Fest, while others can occur at just about any time. Alumni drive planning with the assistance of staff located within the different schools. Our Alumni House staff does not do reunions and typically forwards inquiries that are reunion related to the appropriate schools. Do our alumni even know that staff members are located within their respective schools ready to assist with planning their reunion events? The upshot is that a group of alumni friends decide that they want to do a reunion, they organize it, and they have it.

Alumni involvement is critical. There are too many who wait for something to be organized by someone else. This makes for a long wait. Alumni always respond better to a call to action when a former classmate contacts them and stirs up an interest. It is for this reason that the Newcomb Class Agent program is so attractive and has shown success.

In benchmarking with other universities we learned that Stanford has its reunions around activities other than football and that classmates must lead the planning. Popular activities are organized including educational seminars, receptions to see old professors and/or showcase famous and successful alumni, and programs that encourage families to bring their children. We feel as though more family participation at Homecoming would increase attendance at reunion events.
Duke University has a very active Homecoming schedule in the fall, but in reality, revels in the basketball atmosphere. Their reunions are typically five-year events where adjacent class years get together. The thought is that students probably had some friends that are a bit older and some a bit younger. They bring them all together. Events are geared toward the selected age groups. As an example, recent graduates have done whitewater rafting reunion trips in North Carolina and young family alumni have organized theme park reunion visits.

Georgetown University has done trolley tours of D.C. as part of their Homecoming festivities. A practitioner of a campus wide reunion, a large family BBQ is arranged complete with food, bands, carnival rides and campus tours. The Admissions Dept. gives seminars to cultivate additional student interest, there are alumni/student networking brunches as well as a tennis tournament and various lectures.

At the University of Louisiana-Lafayette, there are Alumni and student Homecoming committees. Homecoming week begins with a kick-off party on the Monday; paint the town red event, golf and tennis tournaments, a road race, parade, and several open houses. The whole program ends with a large fireworks show. Alums are given a skybox for the football game. University staff plays an extremely limited role in organizing and planning reunion activities.

Preliminary Findings

We have learned that successful Homecoming and Reunion programming is only possible when alumni have a love for and an enthusiasm for Tulane University and see a value to be gained by participation. That value can be of a social, educational, recreational, family, or a competitive nature. We feel that the needs of alumni as they progress through their careers and their lives change. While we do not have the big football event complete with thousands of alumni within driving distance, we do have a great city and a diverse, talented alumni base with which value providing programming can be developed.

Providing educational and recreational activities with families in mind utilizing both on campus and off campus sites appear to have merit. New Orleans’ charm and wealth of activities can be leveraged into the programs.

Alumni participation is very low. Many see coming to a Tulane Homecoming and a Tulane reunion as really an opportunity to party in New Orleans. Our challenge is to put the Tulane part back into the party. Students must be taught that it is more than paying the tuition, getting the degree and moving on. We must teach the students very early about what it costs to educate them and that their degree will be with them forever. Supporting the University and the activities of the TAA are means to continually build the value of the degree, which in turn attracts top students. Thereby the cycle becomes complete.
The 2000 Nominating Committee has nominated officers to serve during the 2001 - 2002 term. These nominees will be voted into office at the February 10th board meeting. The committee will then present its slate of Directors to the TAA Board for approval at the upcoming spring meeting scheduled for May 5, 2001. Committee members included Chair, Rich Schmidt, Greg Eaton, Lea Ellison, Lara Geller, Craig Mitchell, Judge Tom Wicker and Ruth Zarren-Koch. Charlotte Travieso, Interim Director Alumni Affairs, and Laurie Orgeron, staff liaison also participated.

Summary of Long Term Care Seminar

LONG TERM CARE

Insurance Companies:

Insurance Company reputation and rating are very important.

Need to be aware of an insurance company’s record of price increases:

• There is no guarantee that rates will not increase after purchasing coverage.
• Some companies apply increases to all existing policies.
• Some companies apply increases to only new policies.

Underwriting Standards
• if lenient - more people are eligible but prices are higher
• if strict - fewer people are eligible but prices are lower.

Would endeavor to negotiate an Association discount.

Product Information:

Long Term Care is a heavily regulated product.

Major Coverages/Features:

Nursing Home Care:
• Purchase cost per day (rates vary dramatically from state to state)
• Important to purchase inflation increase protection
• How long do benefits last?
  2 years, 5 years, 10 years, lifetime
• Average stay in nursing home is 2.5 years
• One out of two people will need nursing home care in their lives

Assisted Living

Home Care: Many policies now offer amounts equal to nursing home care.

There are dozens of other features, all of which need to be analyzed and compared. No two companies offer the same exact features in the same exact combination.
Some Items to Consider Before Sponsoring LTC:
- Excellent service to mid-age and older alumni, who may purchase for themselves or for their parents
- Income to the Association may be limited, at least in the early stages
- Need to attract the right people (still healthy with financial means to purchase)
- Need to educate people on the product:
  - They don’t know if they need LTC.
  - Product is complex.
  - Numerous enhancements make it difficult to compare one product to another
- Product is expensive
- Difficult to describe via mail.

Ways to Market LTC:
- Educational Seminars (costly)
- Mailing only
- Mailing with a telephone follow up by an agent
- Mailing with an agent follow-up visit
Communications and Electronic Resource Committee

The Committee has several ongoing projects this year, one of which has been initiated.

Beginning January 2001, the first TAA eNewsletter was mailed out to all alumni signed up for the TAA listservs. The purpose of the monthly newsletter is to succinctly inform the alumni, in one single mailing, about TAA events and activities as well as highlight events and facts about Tulane. More importantly, we wanted the eNewsletter to be a sort of teaser, which would encourage alumni to click on the associated web addresses and read more. Most entries will have a web address associated with one of Tulane’s web sites, encouraging alumni to read further and to become familiar with navigating Tulane’s various web pages. It’s anticipated that the eNewsletter will be our way of communicating with Alumni on an ongoing basis, bringing them to embrace web sites of Tulane, TAA, Athletics etc. We’ve had very complimentary feedback from alumni for this project thus far. By the way, thanks to Ann Farmer for planting the seed for this newsletter.

The TAA web site is in serious need of a “make over” and your committee has been at work, albeit slow, in initiation this effort, without monetary expenditure. We’ve been offered assistance from Debbie Grant’s office, which Jenny will gladly accept. Perhaps there will be something to show at the Board meeting, but if not, you’ll be informed via our eNewsletter when the site has been revamped. Suggestions are always welcomed, and should be directed to stpaulbourgeois@tulanealumni.net.

Over the past several months, the committee fortunately has not been required to tackle the “virus” problem on the listservs as we faced at the beginning of the calendar year. We encourage all members to activate virus protection software on their computer AND more importantly, to keep up to date, the virus definitions which are the real protection against invasion.

I am happy to report that Tulane has signed a contract with PCI to complete a printed directory for Tulane. This will cause a questionnaire to go out to all alumni, updating their personal information, which in turn will update the ADIS database of alumni names, addresses, etc. By the time of the Board meeting, Tulane and PCI will likely have inked an agreement concerning the TAA web modules we discussed earlier. This will place online the alumni information currently in the ADIS database along with any updates thereto. It will also offer expanded services to the Tulane alumni at the TAA web site.

Your committee has recommended to the executive committee that the Alumni Affairs staff use Adobe Acrobat as the standard way of distributing material to the Board and committees. This was a policy adopted two years ago by the predecessor committee, and approved by the Board, but not fully implemented. Acrobat saves time and paper by including all documents in one self-contained cross platform package. It avoids faxing material, which is a costly endeavor, and allows documents to be distributed with a single mailing. A demo of how to install and use the software, which is free, will be provided at the Board meeting. Please assist the staff in implementing this standard and DON’T be afraid to ask for assistance, if needed. Naturally, electronic documents, which are distributed for the purpose of being edited and returned, will not be placed in this format.
