Monday, November 28th
1:00PM-2:00PM in JBJ 504

"Cuban Experiences on Communicable Disease Control"

Prof. . Pedro Mas Bermejo DrSc is a Senior researcher Tropical Medicine Institute “Pedro Kouri”, Havana, Cuba.

Important communicable diseases have been eliminated or controlled and no longer constitute health problems in Cuba, although environmental conditions and lifestyles persist that could favor their introduction and spread. An intersectoral approach and social participation are essential components of Cuban society and of the country’s health system.